

Englishcombe House Residential Home

Stepping inside Englishcombe House, you almost feel that you could wander into the lounge and curl up with a book and a cup of tea. This pretty Victorian house is so cosy that visitors often comment on its homely feel.

Situated in a traditional Cotswold village opposite a park and a school, there's always something to see, and the house also has stunning views across Bath.

The house was previously a ballet school, and there's certainly a classical feel to the home, with its traditional oak staircase and wrought ironwork.

The second floor lounge has a conservatory that opens out initially onto a patio area, and then on to a beautifully landscaped 'sensory' garden, created with our residents in mind.

This is a charming place, and one where we think you'll feel at home.

At Englishcombe House, as at all the Cedar Care Homes, you'll be part of a happy and stimulating household, where our standard of care improves the quality of life for everyone – adding life to years.

We look forward to welcoming you.
